How to download all text messages from android. How to download and save text messages android. Can i download text messages from android.

Even with the rise of online messengers that you can use to chat with someone for free, sending a text message remains one of the fastest ways to reach someone on their phone. What if the text you want to send isn't urgent, and you intentionally want to postpone sending it? What if you don't want to forget wishing someone a happy birthday the next day or need to reach someone in a different time zone and don't want to wake them up with a text? On Android, there are several ways to schedule a text message to be sent at a later time or date. Learn how to use your native Messages app, Google Messages, or a third-party app to schedule a text message to be sent in the future. How to Schedule a Text Message on Android in Your Native Messages App So you wrote a text but decided to send it another time. The good news is, you can schedule and send your message later, no matter what Android device you have. However, depending on your model, you'll either need to use a third-party app to do it or not. For example, if you have a Samsung phone, you can use your native Messages app called Samsung Messages to schedule your texts. To do that, follow the steps below. Open the Samsung Messages app, find the contact you want to message, and write down your text. Select the arrow icon on the left side of the text, then select the plus icon to reveal additional options. From the options, select Schedule message. Choose the time and date when you want your message to be sent. Select Done to confirm. To finish scheduling your message, select Send. How to Schedule a Text Message Using Google Messages On many models of Android smartphones, Google Messages is the native Messages app. If that's the case, scheduling text messages on Android becomes even easier. To schedule a text message in Google Messages, follow the steps below. Open Google Messages and type your text. Hold down the Send button until the Scheduled send option appears and select it. Pick a date and time when you want the text to be sent. Select Send to confirm. The button will now display a little clock icon that means your message is scheduled. What to Do if You Can't Schedule a Text in Google Messages If you opened your native Messages app and didn't find the Scheduled send option, it could mean one of the two things. Your native Messages app is different from Google Messages, in which case you can simply download and install Google Messages to make it work. Alternatively, the feature may not have rolled out for you yet. You can either wait for the update to reach you or find Google Messages on the Play Store and join the beta program on the product page. The beta version of the app will include the feature. Use Third-Party Apps to Schedule a Text Message on Android You can also use a third-party app to be able to schedule your text messages as well as use other workarounds. Use Pulse SMS to Postpone Your Text Messages If you don't like using Google Messages, Pulse SMS is a good alternative. The Pulse SMS logo even looks similar to that of Google Messages. Naturally, the process of scheduling a text in Pulse SMS mimics Google Messages too. After you download and install the app, open it and select the plus icon in the bottom-right corner of the app. Choose the contact that you want to send a text to. Then, hold down the Send button on the right until you see the option to schedule the text. Select the date and time when you want your message sent and select OK. Write down your message and select Save. Pulse SMS will send it on a day and time that you chose. Schedule Your Texts Using Do It Later Do It Later sounds like an app for procrastination, but it's an app for automating your messages. Aside from scheduling your emails and text messages to be sent later, Do It Later allows you to automatically reply to calls, texts, WhatsApp messages, and even emails. To schedule a text in Do It Later, open the app, select the plus icon in the bottom-right corner of your screen, then choose Message. Next, add the recipient, write down your message and select when you want the app to send it. To confirm, select the tick icon in the upper-right corner of the screen. Do It Later will take care of the rest for you. Write Down Now, Send Later Writing down a thought when it crosses your mind always helps to remember it later. The same is true for text messages. So write down your message the minute you think about it, and if it doesn't seem like the right time to send it, schedule it to be sent later. Do you schedule your texts on Android? Which app do you use for it? Share your experience with postponing texts in the comments section below. We've all had that moment where you're scrolling through text messages trying to find something important that was said. Google's Messages app for Android lets you "star" those messages to easily find them later on. The feature is simple but quite useful. Similar to Gmail, you can "star" any text message and it gets saved to the "Starred" category. Next time you need to reference something important that was sent to you, just go to the category. RELATED: How to Schedule Text Messages on Android The "Messages" app comes preinstalled on some Android devices. If you don't have it, download the app from the Google Play Store. If this is your first time using Messages, you'll see a button to "Set Default SMS App" when you open it. Tapping the button will bring you to a screen or pop-up where you can select "Messages" and tap "Set as Default." RELATED: How to Set Your Default Texting App on Android Conversations from your previous SMS app should appear in Messages after that. Tap a conversation to see the messages. Tap and hold the message that you want to save. Select the star icon in the top toolbar. Now, to see all of your saved messages in one place, go back to the conversation page and tap the three-dot menu icon in the top-right corner. Select "Starred" from the menu. And now, you'll see all of the saved messages! It's as simple as that! This is a great trick to know when someone sends you a password, address, or anything else that you might want to reference later. RELATED: The Best Texting Apps for Android Blocking text messages prevents your phone from receiving texts from any specific number. There are multiple reasons why you might want to do this, like to stop spam or cut ties with someone. Fortunately, you don't need a special message blocker to do so; you can block texts on iPhone and Android using settings built-in to those devices. However, the method you need to use to block numbers is different depending on the app you use to send messages. Another way to stop a number from texting you is to log in to your carrier's website to access your account and set up message blocking. When you block a number to stop getting texts from it, you're also preventing phone calls. There might be third-party apps that can differentiate between the two so that you're blocking texts only and not calls, or vice versa, but the methods explained below block both. These steps apply to both iPhone and Android devices regardless of the manufacturer (e.g., Google, Samsung, HTC) or carrier (like AT&T, Sprint, T-Mobile, Verizon). There are multiple ways to block texts on iPhone. When you do so, you block not only text messages from that number but also phone calls and FaceTime calls. Open Messages and tap the conversation that includes the number you want blocked. Select the arrow to the right of the contact. Select info (denoted by the round "i" icon). Select Info (the last button in a row of four that appears). Scroll down and tap Block this Caller. Select Block Contact to confirm. If the point of contact is a phone call, open the list of calls in the Phone or FaceTime app, tap the (i) icon next to the number you want blocked, and select Block this Caller. If you don't have an existing message or recent call from the person you want to block, but they're a contact in your phone, you can set up the call and text blocking from Settings. Open Settings. Tap Messages > Blocked Contacts. Tap Add New. You need to scroll to the very bottom if you have lots of existing blocked numbers. Pick the contact you want to block. Blocking unwanted texts on Android depends heavily on which messaging app you're using. If you use Google's Messages app on your phone or tablet, follow these directions to block texts: Tap and hold the conversation. Select the circle with the line through it at the top right of the app. Optionally, report the number as spam, and then tap OK. Another way to block texts in the Google Messages app is by opening the conversation. From there, use the menu at the top right to access Details > Block & report spam. If you use the Facebook Messenger app as your default SMS app, here's how to block texts on your Android: Press and hold the conversation with the number you want blocked. Tap the menu button. Select Block. Tap Block once again to confirm. There are lots of versions of the Android operating system still in circulation, so if you're using one that doesn't reflect the instructions above, those screenshots won't look like what you see on your phone or tablet. Try one of these methods for blocking texts on Android if you haven't had luck yet. Open the conversation, tap the three dots at the top right, select Block number, and then tap OK. Tap the three dots at the top of the screen and go to Settings > Block numbers and messages > Block numbers. Type the number you want to block, or choose one from Inbox or Contacts, and then select the green plus sign to add the number to your block list. Look for a Settings or menu-looking button and then browse the options for anything related to SMS, text, calls, messages, or other words that might be used to describe how someone could contact you. There should be a block option there. There are so many messaging apps out there for iPhone and Android that listing SMS blocking directions for all of them is unrealistic. Here's how to block text messages in a few of the more popular ones: WhatsApp: We have a separate guide on this where you can learn how to block a WhatsApp contact. Signal: Open the conversation, tap the three-dotted menu button, select Conversation settings, and choose Block. Telegram: Open the conversation, tap the contact's name at the top, and then use the menu button to select Block user. Google Voice: From the Messages tab, select the conversation, tap the menu button at the top right, go to People & options, and then pick Block. Skype: Select the conversation to open it, tap the person's name at the top, and then scroll to the bottom to choose Block contact. Verizon Messages (Message+): You can't block texts in Message+, but you can do so from your Verizon account. Some carriers have message blocking tools you can use to block spam text messages or block specific numbers. This might be a preferred way for you to block messages if you're a parent overseeing several phones and you don't want your kids to easily undo your restrictions. Follow these links for all the details you need to block text messages within each of these carriers' websites, regardless of the kind of phone that's being used on the account: Verizon, Sprint, T-Mobile. If you're an AT&T customer, the AT&T Call Protect app is the best way to block specific numbers or fraudulent calls. If you use AT&T, T-Mobile, Verizon, Sprint, or Bell, you can report spam texts by forwarding the message to the number 7726 (it stands for SPAM). This might not immediately block the number from texting you again, but it will report the number for further investigation. Thanks for letting us know!
